APPLICATIO

With its eService, APPLICATIO supports development cooperation projects and the development and international competitiveness of companies, organisations and industrial sectors.

Today, digital solutions and associated strategies enable more effective and efficient cooperation worldwide, support communication, data collection, evaluation and processing and support developments in the private sector, the civil sector and good governance worldwide.

The eService of APPLICATIO does not see itself as IT experts or programmers but as specialists in development cooperation with comprehensive digital competencies and experience. The focus is on the development goal, the achievement of which can be digitally supported.

APPLICATIO also relies on numerous digital solutions for data collection and analysis, e-learning, customer service and online collaboration in its own work.
